

The invention relates to shoemaking, namely to the methods for points manufacture.
The method includes supply of the lacing and its fixing, wetting with bonding solution, tabs forming, their cutting, calculation and removal of the finished products.