

The invention relates to agricultural machine-building, more precisely to machines for harvesting flax. A clamping conveyer contains a frame, two paired belt drives, driving and driven tightener pulleys, a system of supporting rollers and carriages with pressure rollers, rods, bases and springs.