

Support unit for pre-drilling of drill-imbedding machine has two supports connected to the pack of collected plates placed in the slots on the holder. The supports are placed one with respect to another at distance smaller than the thickness of the carrier of the main section resting on those.