

The invention relates to machine-building, in particular to piston engines for actuating electric generator. A piston engine power generator has a body, cylinders, pistons with rods placed in cylinders, stators of power generator, armatures of power generator installed in the stator with possibility of displacement along axis of the last ones, swashplates.