

The invention relates to the chemical engineering, particularly to the carbonic sorbents intended for removal of pathogenic intestinal microorganisms from water, and procedure of their obtaining, and it can be used for removal of comma bacillus from water. A material includes carbonic material and component modifying thereof.