

Mixing device for gas flows of different temperatures contains the space of passage of gas for collection of the flow of hot gas, which has a constant thickness relative to ring-shaped opening. The ratio of the width of ring-shaped opening to the thickness of the space of passage of gas is within the limits from 0.2 to 1.