

Oil regeneration apparatus is equipped with unit installed between the pump and discharge valve. It is arranged as connected to each other hydro-reaction and centrifugal sections. The invention relates to units for purification oil lubrication materials and can be widely used for oil purification.