

The invention relates to metallurgy of iron and perfects technology of the converter melting. A method involves scrap charging, cast-iron pouring, addition of slag-forming, manganous and carbonaceous materials, bath lancing with oxygen and removal of intermediate slag in the range of 30-40% of time from the beginning of lancing.