

The invention relates to the medicine, namely to the surgical and orthopedic dentistry. The dental implant consists of the metal part and non-metal coating. The endostal metal part designed as the combined cone with the support and guide components is coated by varying composite layer made of ceramic and bioactive ingredients with the specified pattern of concentration distribution.