

The invention relates to the field of agricultural machine-building, in particular to shredding units of fodder combined harvesters. A shredding unit contains a cutting drum with a countercutting part, flattening rollers and an accelerator installed in a silage duct.