

The invention relates to the processing equipment, namely to the machine tools for sawing by cutting blade and can be used in stonecutting and wood processing, working of metals and plastics. A machine tool contains a base, curvilinear guides of cutting blade with working surfaces equipped with noncontact supports, a device of the tension of saw and its drive.