

The invention relates to rotary furnaces, mostly for the production of cement clinker, and can be used in industry of building materials. A rotary furnace has a rotary cylindrical body mounted on the base, on this one a case is fixed, with going round it with circular gap.