

Invention relates to the transport, in particular to control systems of traction electric motors of traction unit. Device contains a comparison unit, to inlets of which are connected the setting device of current and current-sensing device, drive oscillator. Its output is connected with one of the inputs of threshold element. It also contains the pulse shaper and key elements.