

The invention is referred to technology for processing cultivated mussels and relates to a method for obtaining a mussel concentrate of the therapeutic purpose. An acid method of hydrolysis of mussel meat obtaining MIGI-K [1] is known. The method includes washing mussels, removing sea water, located between valves of the mussels, comminuting thereof, two-stage hydrolysis, centrifuging and concentrating.