

The invention relates to heat engineering, in particular to cooling towers, and can be used for cooling water in recycling systems of water supply. Cooling tower has frame with air inlet windows, water distributor with nozzles and water collection pool.