

The invention relates to the alcohol industry, in particular to methods for production of ethyl alcohol from grain raw material.

A method comprises grinding raw material, e.g. grain, watering, cooking batch, saccharification, fermentation, distillation of brew and rectification.