

The invention relates to oil producing industry, in particular to units for gas separation at reception of beam well pumps. Well gas anchor has switch, suction ferromagnetic tubular element, this is coaxially installed in perforated ferromagnetic tubular body, and precipitation tank.