

The invention relates to the medicine, namely the reflex therapy and may be used for the treatment of several diseases such as hypertension, the bronchial asthma, the diseases of the locomotor system. The method comprises the treatment of the site with ethanol and the installation of the cupping-glasses for 3-5 minutes. Upon removal of the cupping-glasses the skin incisions are made.