

The invention relates to appliances for directing windwheel by direction of air flow and can be used in wind-power engineering and other areas of engineering. Windmill has wind wheel installed on platform of head. It is hinged on the head of the tower and has wind rose connected by reducing gearing to heads of the tower.