

The invention relates to measuring equipment and can be used for separate determination of components of earth resistance for cutting under underwater conditions. Indicator has frame on which elastic element is fixed, and cutter holder with cutting element.