

The invention relates to the area of geo-physics, in particular to radio-wave methods for search of hidden objects, and can be used for study of anomalies under surface of earth. The method includes emission with antenna connected to transmitter of electromagnetic wave, with receiving it with antenna connected to receiver.