

The invention relates to food industry, in particular to production of food and feed vitamin additives from carrots, and can be used in food industry, agriculture and medicine in prophylactic purposes. A method includes washing and cleaning roots and tubers, extracting carrot juice, mixing thereof with citric and ascorbic acids, closing and sterilizing.