

Channel water intake with pipe filtering head has filter for water purification and fish protection and system of intake, supply and distribution of water. Filtering loading is installed under reliable holding distribution system that consists of grate and back filter. The invention relates to water industry and can be used in systems of industrial and agricultural water supply, water draining and micro-irrigation.