

The invention relates to heat engineering, in particular to appliances for water heating, with that in household included. Installation has heat exchanger placed over heat source, with supply and discharge pipelines. Additionally it has axial fan, and heat exchanger is made of plates with mixing chamber formed by pack of heat exchange plates in its basis, side walls of heat exchanger and cover.