

The invention relates to the field of obtaining the laminates and can be used for production of packing materials for foodstuffs, in particular, candies, chemical reagents, medicines. A laminar packing material contains a paper, a protective layer, a polymeric coating and an adhesive layer.