

The invention relates to medicine, namely to rheumatology and reflexotherapy and can be used for reflexotherapy of articular pain in rheumatoid arthritis. A method is realized through the acupuncture points, namely the standard points of the meridians and the trigger pain points.