

This invention relates to stomatology and is intended for treatment of inflammatory-dystrophic paradontum diseases. The remedy corresponding to the invention contains antibacterial substances such as cobalt and zinc chloride, formative substance such as chitozane, reparative substance such as medical vermilate, and, additionally, a dye-staff (methylene-blue or brilliant-green), hydrochloric acid, and distilled water.