

Proposed invention relates to building, particularly, to protective coatings, and may be used for manufacturing of waterproofing coatings, applied in guniting work for sealing and waterproofing of concrete and reinforced concrete constructions of building units of lime-sand bricks and individual elements thereof as well as building unit surfaces plastered with Portland cement sand solution.

A composition comprises Portland cement, silica sand and milled limestone.