

The invention relates to area of medicine, in particular to obstetrics. The method includes study of blood plasma. In blood plasma of pregnant at 18-20 weeks one determines the level of natriuretic factor in conventional units per milliliter and at its values lower than 4.0c.u./ml one predicts insufficiency of blood circulation after 26 week of pregnancy.