

A faucet handle assembly has base intended for interaction with the valve of the mixer. It has socket, body of handle, this is arranged with possibility of fixation to the base, and means for fixation of body to base, this interacts with the socket.