

The invention relates to building materials, in particular, to production of heat-resistant concrete, and may be used for production of fettling for thermal generating unit.

Heat-resistant concrete mixture comprises Portland cement, shamoto finely-powdered addition, filling agent and water. It additionally comprises carbon white, modified with sulfuric titanous.