

The invention relates to the devices for cleaning of internal surface of pipes and can be used in municipal service system, mainly for cleaning of the pipes of small diameter. A device for cleaning of internal surface of pipes has a rod executed in the form of a bar, with helical grooves on the front for removal of deposits, which are removed from the walls of pipes.