

Invention relates to the production of articles made of construction mixture, to the mechanisms for placing and surface packing of concrete mixture. The object of invention is the increase of output of plant operation, improvement of operating unit of device for molding of articles made of concrete mixtures by changing the design of operating unit. In the device for molding are established the rollers, which roll and can change their form from polyhedrons with concave sides toward the cylinder.