

The invention relates to beekeeping, in particular to devices, used for obtaining wax. A steam wax extractor contains a metal chamber for making steam. A water container to collect melted wax with an outlet spout is arranged therein.