

Working of billets is conducted by two or several tools simultaneously, thus oscillating motions of tools are in reversed phase, this leads to the fact that their linear speeds and axial forces created by them are equal in value and directed to the opposite sides respectively.