

This invention relates to castings production, in particular, to composite materials for anti-burnt paints of moulds and formation sand-loam mixes. Realization of this invention will make it possible to improve sanitary-hygienic work conditions, to increase the product quality and to decrease cost.