

Stock containing coast base, stockpile board, supports, launchways is characterized by that as a stockpile board of production section it contains the vessel mounted on the coast base, in housing of which are cut off the units of decks, superstructures, boards (partially), partition with formation during installation on the coast/production section for installation in it of the vessel for repair and/or breaking into scrap metal. The foundation area is prepared for installation of the vessel on the solid base, for which are used grids from polymeric material and nets taken away from of the fishing boats. The cut off units of decks, superstructures, partitions and cut off units of other vessels, in which are made the openings for better cohesion and reinforcements of soil are laid on the nets. Units can be additionally covered with a net and anti-corrosive layer, then by soil with packing.