

A vaccine composition useful in the prevention or treatment of malaria comprises a plurality of malaria-derived antigens in combination with an adjuvant which is a preferential stimulator of TH1 cell response.