

Invention relates to the hoisting equipment. It can be used in different branches at conducting of loading and unloading operations with the cylinders of steel (for transfer of cylinder from the position "end" to the position "on the generatrix"), in particular at overloading of cylinders at manufacturing plant, railway stations, sea and river ports, industrial enterprises.