

The invention relates to the medicine, in particular to endocrinology and describes the method for preventing and treating diabetes mellitus. The solution containing citric acid, 5% iodine solution in ethanol, and sodium chloride is taken per os. In addition, the iodine and sodium chloride solution is used for gargling the nasopharynx.