

A system for control of mechanized charging has control block, device for gun stopping, device for shell supply to charging line and device for feeding it to the gun chamber, mode switch, two end switches. To the system are included: device for transfer of information to electronic distance igniter of the gun, cueing device for time intervals, block of time delays and third end switch.