

The invention relates to the field of sugar-beet, potato-starch, potato-alcohol, canning industry. A unit for separating the impurities from the roots consists of a conic bath, an inclined screw conveyor, devices for removal heavy impurities, nozzle apparatus, a circulating pump and an inclined screen conveyer, which is placed on wooden or polymer supporting bars and slides without sagging.