

A composite material for protective clothing is composed of an inner layer made of glass fiber impregnated with solution of heat-resistant polymer and a connected to it layer as a polyamide or polyethylene terephthalate film which is surfaced with a heat-reflective layer of aluminum.