

The invention relates to measuring equipment. The method is in performing simultaneous measurement of gas flow rate by all the measurement pipelines, with determination of error of flow rate measured for the measurement pipelines, with comparison of error obtained to given value and formation of signal about metrological failure of measurement pipeline..