

The proposed simulator "Tonus-Trening" for the realization of a method for correcting figure of a human being contains a casing fixed to a bracket, a warning device, a power-supply unit, a movable contact element, a fixed contact element, a strain gage, and a force regulator. The proposed method and device provide for significantly increasing the functionality range for correcting figure of a human being.