

Method of growing pine tree stands for balances or digging stand, preferably in the optimum conditions of a growing place, with a technological scheme of the placement of the planting sites with a different space of planting in rows with 1.5-metre interrows and the optimized system of clear fellings with cutting knots on the stems, with achieving the age of technical maturity in 50 years with the planned quality parameters of the forest plant effect with the aim of speeded up obtaining the tree stands for the balance and a digging stand.