

An appliance for ejector protection relates to the field of armored machinery, in particular to armored structures of protection means and can be used for protection of units and elements of power compartment, in particular of section of dust suction from air purifier of CE against bullet, fragments and lead drops hitting.