

The invention relates to the field of magnetic recording, in particular, to the field of indestructibility verification and analogue magnetic recording means.

It can be used in forensic enquiry for carrying out researches in relation to analogue equipment authentication of magnetic recording and verification, authenticity verification and magnetic signal recording originality made in such equipment.