

A package for foodstuffs is made of polymeric materials, with a straight bottom, and has, at least, two upper angles formed, at least, by two sides, in one of the upper angles there is an opening having the dimensions of 1.5 – 6.0 cm, and other is made with the possibility of folding at angle relative to the bottom with additional rigid padding, subsequent bending, turning and fastening to the package, and upper part of the package with additional napkin having may be fixed with the help of the clamp.