

The invention relates to the medicine and describes the method for treating and preventing the bronchial asthma consists in gargling the nasopharynx with the iodine and sodium chloride solution. The drinking of the hot saline solution prevents the asthma attacks.